OHSU Health & Science University

Increment's Structure: The Institute on Development and Disability (IDD) is a distinct entity within the Department of Pediatrics. IDD’s overarching mission is to serve those with disabilities and special health care needs; structurally, IDD is organized to serve the University’s diverse missions of clinical care, education, research, and advocacy. IDD has multiple clinical and non-clinical programs and two campuses, one in Portland and the other located in Eugene. Directors of disciplines, fellows, non-clinical programs, and centers within IDD are responsible for fostering success in the areas of education, research, and advocacy, while clinical leaders are accountable for fulfilling the Institute’s clinical mission. All discipline and non-clinical directors report to Dr. Kent Freeman, who is the Institute’s Director, and Dr. Freeman reports directly to Dr. Dean Bruce, who is the Chair of the Department of Pediatrics.
