Get your degree in a field that makes a difference in children’s lives

This program leads to a Master’s degree in special education and an initial teaching license with a specialization in Early Intervention/Early Childhood Special Education.

The University of Oregon Early Intervention Program provides an inclusive system of learning with:

- Instruction in evidence-based practices for working with children with special needs ages birth-6
- Field-based experience in classrooms and with families of young children
- Experience setting up and operating an inclusive preschool

Program can be completed in 4-5 terms
