ACTIVITY FACULTY
CONFERENCE OVERVIEW

Skill preparation and planning for healthcare transition for children and youth with special healthcare needs (CYSHCN) and their families is inadequate. Less than 50% of families nationwide indicate that their CYSHCN have received the services necessary to make appropriate transitions to adult healthcare, work, and independence. One of the major problems to receiving this care is the lack of a physician workforce trained in providing the services necessary to make the healthcare transition. This conference provides a state-of-the-art update on issues involved in healthcare transition for youth and young adults with chronic illness and disability and their families from pediatric to adult-based services.

Now in its 12th year, the conference brings together internationally, nationally and locally-recognized clinical, policy, legal, research, advocacy, and family experts. Addressing all aspects of transition planning, this conference strengthens the dialogue among healthcare professionals, policy experts, youth and young adults, and family members. For clinicians, the conference includes discussions applicable to both primary and specialty care practice and provides an interdisciplinary perspective on how teams can facilitate the important transition from pediatric to adult-based healthcare. For policy and advocacy experts, the conference provides updates on recent developments. For researchers, it updates recent findings. For parents, teens, and young adults, the conference offers an opportunity to hear practical medical, legal, and insurance information. For all audience members there will be a discussion of the legal issues involved in healthcare insurance during healthcare transition; as well as time to meet and talk with faculty, to exchange ideas among participants, and to share knowledge and insight about how best to plan for a successful transition to adulthood.

TARGET AUDIENCE

Physicians in internal medicine, family practice, pediatrics, psychiatry, and physiatry; other healthcare providers including, psychologists, social workers, nurses, dietitians, case managers, counselors, and public health officials; primary care providers; youth and young adults with chronic illness and their parents/guardians.

OBJECTIVES

At the conclusion of the conference, participants should be able to:

- Identify ways of overcoming potential barriers to successful transitioning of the children and youth with special healthcare needs to adult-based care.
- Develop a practice transition policy, including age when youth should transfer care to an adult practice.
- Describe why consent and confidentiality issues are of critical importance when providing care to adolescents, especially those with special healthcare needs.
- Manage young adults with chronic medical conditions, taking into consideration behavioral and developmental issues.
