PPR Review

- First time this year analyzed data across the UCEDDs to determine potential outliers for the following core functions:
 - Community services: training/TA
 - Research
- Working on correlating data reports from NIRS with data in PPRs for:
 - Interdisciplinary pre-service preparation
 - Community services: model/demonstration services
 - Information dissemination

PPR Review

- Findings from the analysis:
 - Community Services: Training/TA, 14/67 outliers
 - Research: 5/67 outliers
- Next steps:
 - Treating this year as a base line
 - Work out 'kinks' with NIRS data

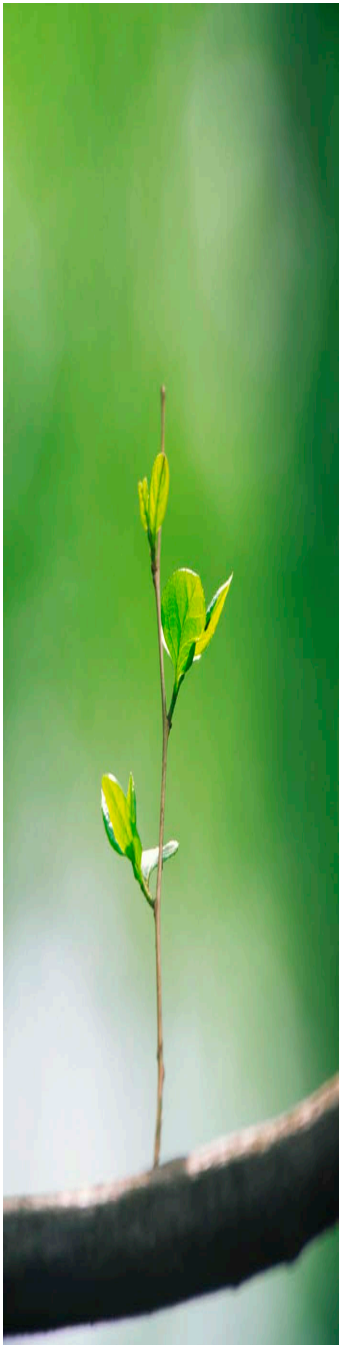

PPR Revisions

- Annual Report Template Workgroup developed recommended logic model to serve as framework for the PPR
- Logic model discussed at past two TA Institutes and revised based on feedback
- Would like to finalize logic model:
 - Mechanisms for feedback on logic model
 - Draft definitions - some questions to consider

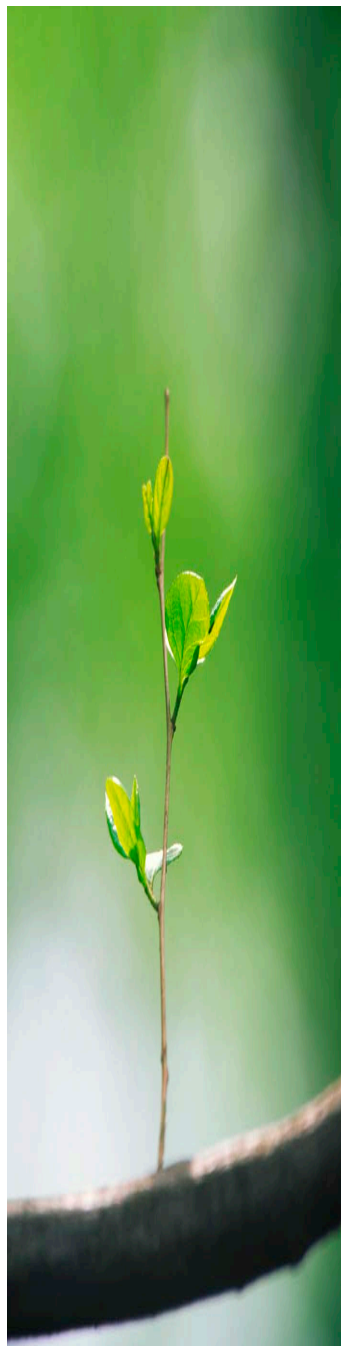

Questions

- There was a recommendation to develop measures under Interdisciplinary Pre-Service Preparation that would reflect the academic disability studies activities that an increasing number of UCEDDs offer. What might those measures look like?
- Is there ample clarification of the difference between research, evaluation, field testing, basic research, applied research, and analysis of public policy?

Questions

- The DD Act requires reporting consumer satisfaction measures in the areas of emphasis (Section 105) so such measures will still have to be included in the model. Should we keep the current measures and consider them under initial outcomes? For example, under Community Services - Model Services, the current measure is on the numbers served. Consumer satisfaction could be added as an additional outcome.
- There is a recommendation to add under Research “Outputs” a measure on the extent that UCEDDs involve students/trainees in research activities, studies, and publications. What kind of measure would capture this type of activity?

PPR Template

 - Process for providing feedback
